Professor Simon S. M. Ho

Thank you and Season's Message to All Colleagues and Students

22 December 2015

Dear Family Members of HSMC,

As the X'mas and the New Year are coming, it is time to look back, thank colleagues and supporters, remember good friends, and to make new wishes.

As many of you are aware, the Initial Evaluation (IE) of HSMC cum Learning Programme Accreditation exercise of our first master's degree (QFL6) programme was completed very smoothly last week. Positive and encouraging feedback has been received from the HKCAAVQ Panel. I would like to thank all staff members who have helped in making this exercise a fruitful one. Pending the HKCAAVQ's final report, we believe that HSMC has reached another new height in its development.

Indeed the College has made a number of important achievements in the past year. You may find my brief report in the December issue of the College Newsletter:

Your concerted efforts, commitment and passion for high quality programmes, teaching, student development, research and various services have been highly appreciated. On an average working day, I meet many teachers, administrative staff and frontline workers on the campus and during the meetings/activities. I may not be able to greet each of you by name, but I do think I owe you all a word of thanks. You have often walked an extra mile and offered selfless help to your co-workers and the College. I feel so heart-warming that you all treasure the pleasant and collegial working environment here.

Working together as a close team, I am confident that we can realize our common goal to become a leading non-profit private university in Hong Kong. We will continue to nurture satisfying, soulful and responsible graduates, and I earnestly look forward to your continuous support in the years ahead.

Trust that you will experience the hope and the beauty that this festive season brings to us. Wishing you and your family a Merry Christmas and much happiness throughout the New Year of 2016!
